

Hi, this is Loren from Christopher Norris Photographers with a few Wedding Photography tips to take the stress out of your special Wedding day.

Tip # 1

Your wedding is a reflection of your personal style. You want everything to be perfect, down to the last detail. Whether you've chosen the color of the year (emerald green) or your own color palette, be sure to ask your photographer to memorialize your choices by taking photos of your shoes, hairpiece, rings, flowers, invitation, place cards, the bows on the back of your chairs, favors, even your nail polish. If you neglect to do this, chances are all the things that made your wedding uniquely yours will be forgotten. Images like these make wonderful backgrounds in your wedding album.

Tip # 2

While it may sound like an "over the top" approach, creating a detailed wedding day itinerary will help calm your nerves. There's so much to gain by taking this approach. Besides sharing the times and places, use your itinerary to assign duties to members of your bridal party. They will actually be happy that you are giving them some direction and feel they are playing a role in making your day special. Be sure to share the itinerary with your photographer, videographer and limousine driver. They will thank you for it. They don't want to feel lost any more than you do. Putting everything in writing takes all the worries out of your head. You'll be relaxed, knowing that everyone will know what to do and when to do it.
